So far all new distribution is Skyhorn, but I hope to close a few more in the next few days. The surge was just triggered by me giving him a call explaining that he needed to step it up or there was no chance we would continue past the test.

Also, how are DR vs non-DR MBs monetizing?

It's too early to tell exactly how much worse but it is lower. Skyhorn base is now in the 50K range. I see roughly 300 clicks per day on this base making total daily net revenue a stellar $30-40. I have a DR base at the roughly the same scale and they monetize roughly three times better.

Will get back to you when I have figured out exactly what drives the discrepancy but it seems likely to me that Skyhorn added us to a distribution channel that just sucks.

Non-DR MB's are getting some traction. Still don't know exactly where I get the download from and also of note, the non-DR MB's seem to monetize less effectively. This, I presume has everything to do with the distribution source. However, they are checking in which indicates that the actual download/install certainly happens.

Keep you posted.
