EXHIBIT 66
Just FYI - Both in-house 404 and Msn's 404 take over JF's default search. This means that when the end user click the search icon in JF's toolbar he will no longer get Msn search but DR search. The importance from a revenue perspective of taking over the search is substantive - around 30% of the revenue comes from last panel searcher.

On Apr 8, 2005, at 13:17, Joshua Abram wrote:

> Bill-
> > here's what we would suggest you look at in terms of bundles:
> > applications. First of all, there should be no pop-ups ever. That's > > our underlying premise. Having said that, you should consider:
> >
> > 1. A 404 client. Only appears when a consumer mistypes a URL and > > matches what he failed to get with a likely list of what he was > > probably looking for. A good consumer benefit with no friction.
> > 2. A behavioral client. A consumer is not more bothered by this than > > by a cookie. It shows the user something that the site that you go > > see at consumer sites (the normal banners, towels, etc.) are selected > > to better reflect the consumer interests as evidenced in their search > > terms and URLs visited across the web.
> > 3. A dynamic contextual links product that integrates within the > > browser adding relevant links. Essentially. If you are visiting an > > consumer jewelery, your browser will, unobtrusively, have links that > > show you the competitive set of jewelery. Again, a very low friction.
> > tool that offers value and makes you money. No ads, no jewelery. Just > > relevant links that you can see or ignore as you wish.
> > 4. In addition, through our pulse at Mediacom, we can set you up > > with a metric to $4 billion in TV media spending. Mediacom has asked us > > to help them work in this area.
> >
> > Please let me know how you wish to proceed.
> >
> > Medico. Medico above, puts our search products group and will send a > > 404 client and screen shots of the contextual link product.
> >
> > Best,
> >
> > Joshua
> >
> > On 4/6/05 8:37 PM, "William Page" (weegerstein-inc.com) wrote:
> >
> > Hi Joshua and Andrew
> >
> > Thanks for your time today. Here are some points we need to address:
> >
> > * type of client you have in mind for bundling - show us an example.
> > * Remember, inivative is the word (if there is such a word) for us.
> > * Work with you to incorporate real-time advertisement around > > programs (media once Msn.
> >
> > are both comfortable with.

DR039487
CONFIDENTIAL
depending on tests and CT rates, discuss uploading the client to parts of your network.
I might have missed something, so feel free to add what you think.
Let's try and get a basic outline for a deal going, tweak it and then both Career and I will fly into the City to meet with you (and media) at that time as well.
Best
-b.

William Sager
President, C.O.O.
Technology Entertainment Network, Inc.
http://www.ten-inc.com/

1639 Eleventh Street, Suite 267
Santa Monica, CA 90404
213-341-0701-office
213-477-2056-fax
610-445-0808-mobile
wsager@ten-inc.com

This e-mail and any files transmitted with it are the property of Technology Entertainment Network, Inc. and/or its affiliates, are confidential, and are intended solely for the use of the individual or entity to whom this e-mail is addressed. If you are not one of the named recipient(s) or otherwise have reason to believe that you have received this message in error, please notify the sender at (213) 341-0710 and delete this message immediately from your computer. Any other use, retention, dissemination, forwarding, printing, or copying of this e-mail is strictly prohibited.