I am having a heck of a time setting up this Server Matrix company. We have an address, phone and email with OfficeSpace but they are also requiring a copy of 1) a valid drivers license (or other photo ID) and 2) both sides of a credit card w/same name as the photo ID.

I want to use someone's info so that this is not associated with DR. Any thoughts?

(Alan, I could use some pointers here. Not as good at this as you are.)

Alan,

In order to slow down the proliferation of companies related particularly to distribution (and so we don't have a new company during diligence) I've asked Chris to begin using DBAs when possible instead of creating a new company.

These DBAs have the added benefit of allowing us to distribute the name on the Active X model which, as you may remember, Visa will not hesitated to have a big effect on response.

Since we're keeping "Grand Street Media Buying" active I've asked Visa to use this in the Thavt process. Again, the name will "Grand Street" will not be sold to the public. I know that you're using it for search but I don't think search and distribution will prove bad bookmark.

The alternative is to (1) start another distribution company to run these all off of or (2) take one of the LPS with a blank account that we were going to kill and to use it.

Let me know if you see a problem in using Grand Street.

Thanks.
