EXHIBIT 123

Subject: Fwd: MX-Targeting won't remove
From: Daniel Doman <ddoman@direct-revenue.com>
Date: Sun, 12 Sep 2004 16:22:01 -0400
To: Scott Krause <scott@direct-revenue.com>
CC: Raffi Minassian <raffi@direct-revenue.com>, Olga Engroff <olga@marchingant.com>, Chris Dowhan <chris@direct-revenue.com>, Alan Murray <alan@direct-revenue.com>, sandra andreis
<admin@mypctuneup.com>

Same as before - except that people are getting riled. We need to get this guy into Liveperson so we can figure out why they are unable to uninstall. This is the second nasty email I've seen today (Olga must have very thick skin) Lets jump on this.

-dan

Begin forwarded message:

From: "Olga Engroff" <olga@marchingant.com>
Date: September 12, 2004 3:31:05 PM EDT
To: "'Scott Krause'" <scott@direct-revenue.com>, "sandra andreis" <admin@mypctuneup.com>
Cc: <dan@direct-revenue.com>
Subject: FW: MX-Targeting won't remove Reply-To: <olga@marchingant.com>

-----Original Message-----
From: Eddy LaBarr [mailto:toxic1@ocinet.net]
Sent: Saturday, September 11, 2004 7:52 PM
To: domain@thinkingmedia.net
Subject: MX-Targeting won't remove

Hello;

One of our computers has become infected with MX-Targeting software. The removal instructions on your site don't work for XP. Even in safe mode and after extensive removal of registry keys, MX-Target.dll stays right in there.

We have a problem with this. If we can't get this off, we will have the machine reformatted, the procedure documented and we will sue Thinking Media LP here in Colorado court. We will sue for all reformatting & documentation costs, emotional distress and punitive damages incurred plus filing fees and attorney's fees.

If you want to avoid litigation you will respond to this e-mail with detailed removal instructions that work.

Sincerely Yours:

Eddy LaBarr

P.O. Box 1205

Montrose, CO 81401

877-421-7625

toxic1@ocinet.net

Part 1.1	Content-Type:	text/enriched
	Content-Encoding:	quoted-printable