Not to slow anything down I put everything in my name and on my card. I can change the user profile later on.

I am having a heck of a time setting up this Server Matrix company. We have an address, phone and email with Officescape but they are also requiring a copy of 1) a valid drivers license (or other photo ID) and 2) both sides of a credit card w same name as the photo ID.

I want to use someone's info so that this is not associated with DR. Any thoughts?

(Alan, I could use some pointers here. Not as good at this as you are.)

Alan-

In order to slow down the proliferation of companies related particularly to distribution (and so we don't have a new company during diligence) I've asked Chris to begin using DBAs when possible instead of creating a new company.

These DBAs have the added benefit of allowing us to customize the name on the Active X modal which, as you may remember, Vishal said he learned had a big effect on response.

Since we're keeping "GrandStreet Media Buying" active I've asked Julia to use this in the Thawte process. Again, the name will "Grand Street" will not be seen by the public. I know that you're using it for search but I don't think search and distribution will prove bad bunkmates.

The alternative is to (1) start another distribution company to run these all off of or (2) to take one of the LLP with a bank account that we were going to kill and to use it.

Let me know if you see a problem in using Grand Street.

Thanks,
J
